

ready decline in the popularity of the cigar has manufacturers tried. With 20 million more in the country than two years ago, the demand for cigars is off 40 per cent. Manufacturers' conclusion: Where there's not enough smoke they've got to increase the sales fire.

From across the editorial office, Paul Jones says he, "The trouble with these manufacturers is they simply aren't putting out a good 5-cent cigar." You see — about the only thing 5 cents will buy nowadays is a piece of debate.

It looks to me like there's an ominous connection between the decline of the cigar and the rise of the enclosed automobile. The word "automobile" used to refer to an open-air phaeton. Enclosed cars were "limousines", afforded only by the rich. The old man fired up a cigar, took the wheel of the phaeton — and took off. In his open-air vehicle nature kindly whisked away the fumes so he not annoy the Mrs. in the back seat. Mr. Rich, sitting in the back seat of his limousine right alongside the wife, while a liveried chauffeur guided the wheel, was not so fortunate. Cigars were forbidden him. Now "progressive" has caught up with the men. Yesterday's limousine is today's sedan, priced for anybody — and the ladies' verdict that a cigar at close quarters is unfriendly, is bearing down heavily on the trade of those whose business it is to roll cigars.

Ominous? Well, anything is ominous when you have to discuss it on Friday the 13th.

GI Checks Exempt From Debt Seizure

Washington, Jan. 13 —(AP) — GI dividend checks are exempt from seizure for payment of debts, the veterans administration said today.

The treasury department printed its first large batch of the World War II insurance dividend checks yesterday, and the post office department will start mailing them — at a proposed rate of 300,000 a day, 1,000,000 a week — next Monday.

The major part of the $280,000,000 dividend is to be paid out by next June 30. There are about 16,000,000 policy holders.

The veterans administration said in a statement that the dividend checks "may not be withheld from veterans as security for indebtedness due an individual or firm."

It added that it issued the announcement "after noting that some veterans have directed that their checks be mailed to certain business establishments in various localities."

"We have no choice but to honor such requests since the veteran has the right to have his check mailed to any address he designates," VA said.

"However, no one has the legal right to withhold dividend checks from veterans after receipt, either for settlement of a debt or for any other reasons."

The dividend checks also are exempt from income taxes.

Sub Survivor Tells of Fight for His Life

Chatham, England, Jan. 13 —(AP) — A 26-year-old survivor of the submarine Truculent told today of battling for his life in the freezing waters of the Thames estuary.

Leading Seaman Fred Henley of Gillingham, Eng., said he struggled for 45 minutes in the inky blackness before he and four companions were rescued.

He was in the group, including the submarine's skipper, Lt. C. E. Bowers, who were picked up by the Dutch liberty ship Almdijk.

Henley and three companions were transferred to Chatham this morning and later this afternoon Henley was sent home.

In an interview he told this story: "I was just going up to the conning tower when the first thing I heard was orders from the captain over the telephone (intercom) for 'full astern'."

In a matter of seconds after that the collision took place. By that time I was on the bridge and thrown into the water.

The ship that hit us (the Swedish tanker Dylva) was out of control. But she dropped cork lifeboats. Five of us caught hold of these.

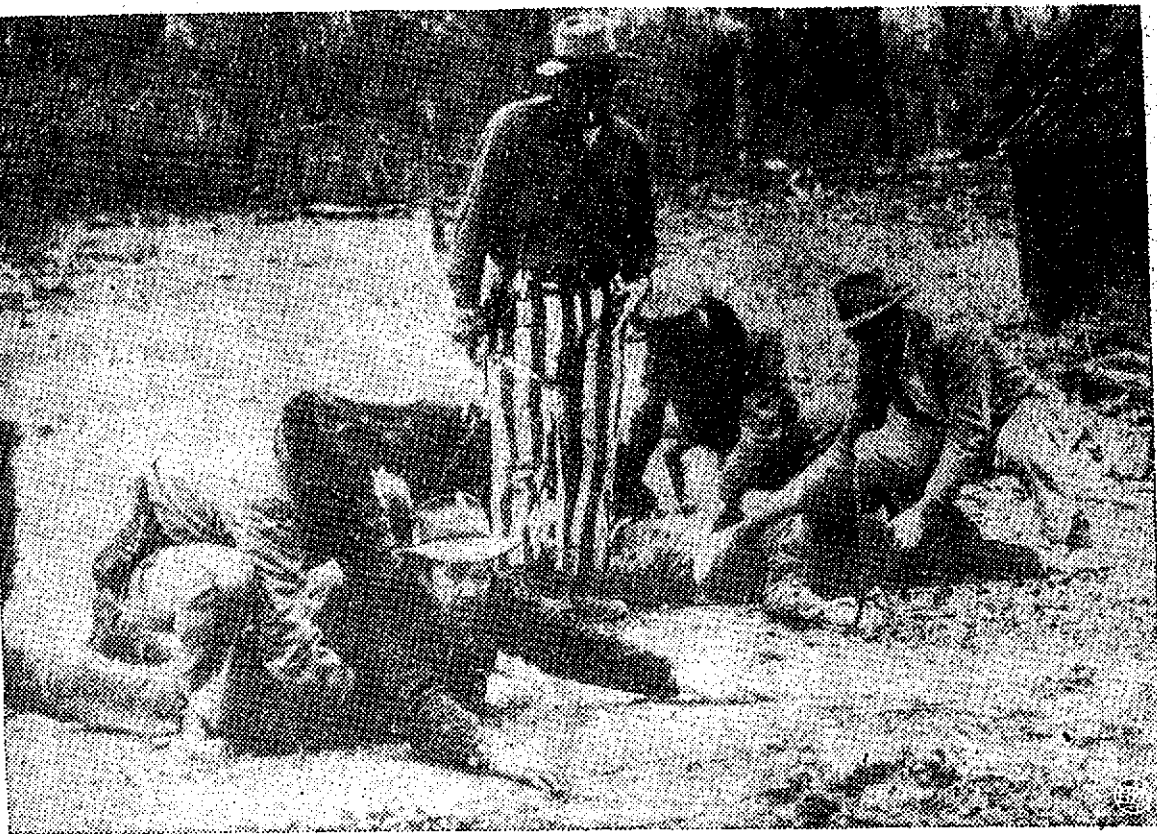

The Dutch ship picked us up after 14 been in the water about 45 minutes. The whole five of us were picked up.

There was some mist at the time. I never saw the Swedish ship until it hit us.

For the collision the people on the bridge stayed there three or four seconds and the submarine sank under them."

Nevada County Is Selected for Experimental Farmers' Conservation Program by PMA

Nevada County

Selection of Nevada County as the county in which an experimental Farmers' Conservation Program will be developed was announced earlier this week by C. C. Willey, chairman of the State Committee of the Production and Marketing Administration. The program will be developed and executed by farmers in the county with assistance of community PMA Committees with the County PMA Committee having charge of the program.

B.C. chair man of the Jarley, J. B. Cearley, chairman of the county committee said that the program is expected to be a long-range affair extending over a period of five years. It has as its purpose the encouragement of farmers to establish and follow conservation systems of farming systems which will result in the conservation and improvement of soil and other resources of the farms and to obtain information which will provide a better basis for the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Conferences were held in Prescott with PMA Committees and representatives of other Agricultural Agencies which will cooperate in the program. These include the Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration and the Vocational Agriculture Department including C. I. Instructors.

Mr. Cearley announced that a school of instruction for committeemen and others who will work on the program was held at Prescott on January 10 and 11 with J. A. Humphill and J. E. McMillen in charge. Detailed plans for the operation of the program was worked out at the school.

The program includes on-the-farm contacts with all farmers in the county for the purpose of affecting the productivity of the working out a program developed by the farmers with the assistance of the committeemen. The committeemen will help the farmers set down on paper for each field or area the conditions which affect the productivity of the piece of land, the conservation problems which exist and the farmers' conservation program for that field, woodlot or pasture.

Hot Springs Gets National Park Funds

Washington, Jan. 13 —(AP) — The national park service today made public additional details on funds asked by President Truman for national parks in the year starting July 1.

The agency said comparative data on appropriations for the current year is not available now, but the totals are roughly the same as those asked for next year.

The new list includes: Hot Springs, Ark., $139,413.

Critical Coal Shortage in 36 U. S. Cities

Washington, Jan. 13 —(AP) — The U. S. Chamber of Commerce today reported a "critical" coal shortage in 36 cities, hard on the heels of President Truman's new denial that the three-day mine week has created a coal emergency.

The chamber statement apparently was prepared before Mr. Truman's indication that his news conference yesterday that he has no immediate plans to force full production in the coal fields by using his Taft-Hartley act emergency injunction powers against John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

The chamber reported that it had surveyed areas in 10 "principal bituminous coal using states," with this result:

"With an average of less than seven days' supply in dealers' hands in 36 average sized towns surveyed, telegraphed advices from chambers of commerce in these cities reveal that widespread suffering and hardship has been averted so far primarily because of the unseasonably mild weather."

The statement said that in some places such hardship is "only a matter of hours away."

In Chicago, the American Retail Coal association said Mr. Truman's statement "will surprise those citizens who are now burning wood because coal is unavailable."

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, who has been saying all along that there is an emergency, commented that the President's statement hasn't changed his mind.

Before Mr. Truman's news conference, Moody had released figures to show that coal stockpiles were at the lowest level in at least 10 years.

The southern operators said there was no record of any time when reserves fell below the 22,300,000 tons they estimate are above ground now.

"If there's a no strike," Moody said, "we'll go right through the bottom."

Other operators declared that Mr. Truman had called an emergency and used the Taft-Hartley act to half a Lewis strike on April 1, 1948 when there was a stockpile of 43,000,000 tons available above ground.

15 Minutes Late, Husband Kills Wife

New York, Jan. 13 —(AP) — A pretty young bride was killed by her jealous husband, police said today, because she got home 15 minutes late.

The victim was brunette Ann Taylor, 21, a bride of three months. Her husband, Thomas, 28, was booked on a homicide charge after he voluntarily gave himself up late last night.

Police said he told this story: He and his wife had moved into a one-room Brooklyn apartment a week ago. Yesterday at her insistence, he permitted her to visit her foster mother. She promised to return by 3:45 p.m.

When she didn't return until 4 p.m., the husband, in a rage of jealousy, beat her with a hammer and then strangled her with his belt.

"I thought I was going to lose her," police quoted him. "I was insanely jealous."

"I didn't believe her when she told me that she had been delayed by three slow-moving trolleys," he was quoted.

Mississippi County Has Polio Case

Blytheville, Jan. 13 —(AP) — The first case of polio in Mississippi county this year has been reported to the county health unit.

Franklin Riggs, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Riggs of Calumet, is under treatment for the disease.

Mississippi county reported a total of 150 cases during 1949 — an epidemic year in Arkansas.

Truman's Civil Rights Program Up in House

Washington, Jan. 13 —(UP) — President Truman's civil rights program came up in the house today for its first test of the new congressional session.

The odds were against an immediate victory for Mr. Truman.

The President served notice on congressional Democrats last night that he will continue to fight "as long as I live" for civil rights and other planks in the party platform.

He spoke at a national committee reception for all senate and house Democrats.

Chairman Adolph J. Sabath, (D-Ill.) called up for debate in the House rules committee due motion for a vote on the civil rights bills — a measure to create a permanent fair employment practices commission.

The rules committee is the "traffic cop" that keeps legislation moving to the house floor.

Rep. E. E. Cox, (D-Ga.) influential committee member, promised a fight against the bill. Sabath conceded that he probably will not be able to force a vote on it right away.

Whether the rules committee approves it or not, the FEPC bill was assured of getting to the floor eventually. Its sponsors have put in motion machinery to bypass the rules committee.

The bill would ban discrimination in private employment because of race, color, creed or national origin. It would create a special commission to police the law.

Today's action was but the opening round in what promised to be a general civil rights fight on both sides of the capital by early next week. The southern bloc in both the house and senate have promised to fight all the proposals to the end.

Stock Market Takes Another Slump

New York, Jan. 13 —(AP) — The stock market slumped a few cents to more than $1 a share today in a continuation of the severe bearishness swept through the exchange late Thursday.

Orders to sell swamped the reporting facilities of the market and the tape ran as much as 2 minutes late after the opening.

Here and there signs of holding appeared when a number of leading issues opened unchanged or even added a modest gain.

But there was no mistaking the generally lower trend. Traders and the general public were not in a buying mood.

For brief periods there were some indications of a leveling off in the decline, but each time fresh selling appeared and prices went off further.

Selling was general throughout the list. There was no concentration of pressure in any of the major groups of stocks.

General Motors was active and off more than $1 a share and U. S. Steel was off a cent and a half with the drop amounting to around $1.

Others lower included Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, International Harvester, Philco, Coca-Cola, Kodak, Federal, Du Pont, Santa Fe, General Electric, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil (N.J.), Johnson & Johnson, Nickel Plate, and Douglas Aircraft.

It is exactly seven months today since the stock market reached the lowest point of 1949 and started its steady climb with a pace and strength that marked it as a bull market.

Department Store Sales Again Show Decline

St. Louis, Jan. 13 —(AP) — Department store sales in the eighth federal reserve district last year were off five per cent from 1948, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today.

Compared with the previous year, sales were off in all of the district's major cities. The drop ranged from three per cent at Memphis, Tenn., and Fort Smith, Ark., to 13 per cent at Springfield, Mo.

Sales were off six per cent in St. Louis and Little Rock, Ark., compared with 1948.

December sales in the district were off two per cent compared with the same period a year ago. The bank noted that department store buying last month was concentrated in the two weeks before Christmas.

"The peak was reached in the week ended Dec. 17 when sales totaled larger than in any previous one-week period on record," the bank said.

"These gains late in the month, however, were not sufficient to overcome completely the decline from the 1948 levels that occurred in the eight days of December."

Hope Fades for 58 Trapped in Sunken Sub

Chatham, Eng., Jan. 13 —(AP) — Fifty-two men were feared dead aboard the rammed and sunken submarine Truculent today.

Divers and frogmen tapped out messages on the hulk of the sunken undersea raider, but up to this afternoon apparently had received no response.

Vice Adm. G. B. Middleton of the Chatham navy yard posted a notice saying "great loss of life" is feared.

Word from rescue craft at the scene indicated hope was fading swiftly for the men all believed to be aboard the submarine which went to the bottom of the Thames estuary last night after she was smashed by the iron-clad prow of a Swedish tanker.

Nine are known dead. Three of these were picked up last night after the collision and six more bodies were found today. Fifteen men were rescued.

In addition, all five men aboard a Lancaster rescue plane were killed early today in a takeoff crash at Royal Air Force station in Scotland. The plane was to have picked up divers for the Chatham operation.

The submarine lay in silt about 42 feet below the surface at low tide. The ebbing tide had allowed the divers in reaching the craft, which had gone down in water 34 feet deep.

Of the 76 aboard, 18 were sailors and 18 were dockmen sailing as part of the crew in a test cruise after refitting.

The admiral said the six bodies found today were discovered in Barrow Deep, about 10 miles north-east of where the sub went down. Apparently the bodies had been swept toward the open sea by the outgoing tide this morning.

Guided by the sub's yellow buoys, possibly released accidentally, the divers in unwieldy equipment and swift-moving frogmen in web-footed rubber suits crawled over the sunken craft, laboriously tapping out messages in morse code.

But a naval officer at the scene said repeated messages like this had brought no response.

Word from the salvage vessels said the divers found at least four of the Truculent's seven compartments flooded.

"It is possible," a naval officer said, "the last three compartments are unaffected. A diver is making a fresh attempt to examine the sub's superstructure to see whether or not the hatches are open."

"If they are open there can be even less possibility of anyone on board being left alive."

This morning the biggest peace time disaster to a British submarine since June, 1939, when the Thetis sank in Liverpool bay with a loss of 99 lives. The U.S. submarine Squaw, which sank off New Hampshire in May, 1929, cost 26 lives, and 133 men were saved by use of a huge rescue bell which was lowered from a surface ship and fitted to an escape hatch.

The admiral spokesman said some of those saved last night bobbed to the surface with a self-rescue apparatus, which includes a lifebelt and portable oxygen supply.

At least a few others aboard shot to the surface but were not found, he said.

Any not yet picked up by now almost certainly have died from the shock of the icy water.

The spokesman said survivors reported that others had gone up in the darkness with them but were not accounted for.

Scores of ships circled the scene.

Cotton Council Plans to Regain Foreign Markets

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 13 —(AP) — Delegates to the 17-state National Cotton council meeting here Jan. 23-25 may lay plans for regaining America's prewar foreign cotton markets.

The chairman of the council's foreign trade committee, S. J. West of Memphis, announced yesterday his group will gather two days before the general meeting to consider the problem.

West said he believed congress may cut its appropriations for the Marshall plan in the next year. This, he said, would reduce cotton shipments under the BCA and his up to the council to lay new plans to keep cotton moving.

Committee members expected for the pre-conference meeting included: R. E. Short, Brinkley, Ark.

St. Louis, Jan. 13 —(AP) — Union officials today formally served notice on the governors of the six states served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. that they feel free to call a strike after midnight Sunday.

That date marks the end of a truce arranged by Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri.

Division 30, CIO Communications Workers of America, made known its position in telegrams to each of the governors.

The telegrams said the union "has made every effort" to settle the contract dispute with Southwestern Bell and that it would continue to strive for a peaceful settlement through Jan. 15 as recommended by a governors' conference Dec. 29.

The telegrams added: "The division stands ready and willing to carry out its commitment to follow the recommendation to submit the dispute to arbitration."

"We regret that the telephone company refuses to recognize its responsibilities to the public and its employees, as it concentrates its efforts to force a disruption of telephone service."

"The company is spending thousands upon thousands of dollars for newspaper subscribers' dollars for newspaper advertising in a vain attempt to discredit this union and to excuse the company's haughty, uncompromising and reckless attitude."

"We regret that your recommendations have not been carried out."

Frank P. Lonergan, union vice president, said the telegrams did not necessarily mean the union's 50,000 workers would strike at midnight Sunday. A strike date, he added, would not be revealed "beforehand."

It was considered possible that the union would not strike until February, when a nationwide telephone walkout is scheduled.

There were no indications today that the company and union would get together in negotiations before Jan. 15 deadline.

On the contrary, U. S. conciliators have all but given up hope that anything can be accomplished through further meetings — unless one side or the other changes its position.

The deadlock developed last Friday when the company turned down the union's demand for a 15 cent-an-hour wage increase. Fourteen other issues also are involved.

Friday the 13th — If Anything Happens to You Just Blame It on Your Pet Superstition

By HAL BOYLE
New York —(AP) — This is Friday the 13th, and anything unlucky happens to you — blame it on superstition.

People have been doing it for centuries, and they will probably keep on doing it.

Superstition is the reverse side of faith, the lazy man's way of keeping out of trouble. Faith requires acts of positive good to retain the favor of the lord you worship. But superstitions are attempts to buy off the devil at a low price by some small ritual.

But since civilized man remains a lazy animal, superstition still thrives in his heart side-by-side with faith. He tries to work both sides of the street — to please God and placate the devil.

People who say they aren't superstitious simply don't know how deeply superstition is worked into the fabric of their daily lives. Why, for instance, do you decorate your home with evergreen branches at Christmas? Well, the custom springs from an ancient fertility rite — an appeal to bless the house with more children.

Everyone consciously or unconsciously observes some ritual of superstition. Once, entering his room to interview Primo Camerera, I took off my hat and coat and tossed them on the bed.

"Don't do that!" he exclaimed. "You'll bring bad luck. You'll throw a hat on a hotel bed?"

My own pet superstition is to knock three times on wood when I don't want something bad to happen. No one has to tell me that it is a silly and useless gesture. I know it. But I've been doing it since I was a child — and I'm going to go right on doing it.

It doesn't take much time. And who doesn't tell you that it doesn't ward away danger?

Many people, particularly women, have a superstitious belief in astrologers and other fortune tellers. One astrologer told me of a famous business man who never made an important decision until she had gandered at the stars for him.

Superstitious fears often bring about their own fulfillment. This was true in the last war of many soldiers who developed a conviction they would be killed in battle. Ernie Pyle got this feeling after surviving many battlefields.

"I think my luck is running out," he said. And it did. But in many cases death came because, feeling they no longer had a chance of returning alive, soldiers grew despondent and careless.

The most superstitious classes today are probably show people and horse players. Rogars make a good living by hanging out in the theatrical districts, knowing that most entertainers won't pass them by without tossing them a coin for good luck. And confirmed horse betters will follow their favorite superstitions right into bankruptcy court.

Horseshoe-shaped ashtrays, fox tails dangling from motor cars, pocket good luck pieces — all are survivals of our superstitious past. And there are dozens of others.

My wife, Frances, has a life-long superstition I wish would come true. Whenever bubbles form as she pours herself a cup of tea, she carefully gathers the bubbles with a spoon and drinks them quickly. "It means a lot of money," she says stubbornly.

However, I still have to go to work. And that's no superstition.

This Section Flooded by Heavy Rains

Torrential rains flooded this section early today and continued at a steady pace throughout the morning.

At 8 a.m. today the Experiment Station recorded 1.80 inches of rain in the past 24 hours, with the heaviest part falling during the early morning hours. At noon the rain continued and estimates placed the total to around 3 inches.

High winds accompanied the daylight downpour — and a lightning cracked all over the city but no damage was reported. Water in city streets especially in the South Main and Elm street section. Many automobiles were flooded out.

High temperature for the hour period was 58 with a low of 57 degrees.

Formosa May Hold Out 6-18 Months

Washington, Jan. 13 —(AP) — A report to the house foreign affairs committee from a staff aide says the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa might be able to hold out for six to 18 months without American help.

The report also says that any control of the island in a three-way war would be of "great strategic consequence," but "the odds are in attendant circumstances."

The document makes no specific recommendation as to whether the United States should give direct military aid to Formosa, but it does urge congress to act.

C. B. Marshall wrote the report. He is a former newspaperman and Harvard instructor and doctor of philosophy. He was named to become a state department foreign service officer when the committee hired him a couple of years ago.

Marshall said he was not giving any answer to the foreign problem. He did offer some analysis.

The administration's position against giving military aid to the Nationalists who fled from mainland to the island is miles off the coast.

Some Republicans say the department regarded Formosa as a strategic importance in the war. They said American military leaders still consider it strategically vital, and that the department has reversed its position.

Marshall's report quotes an article in an official state department Republican of June 1949 which at least one member of the house committee has tossed to the Secretary of State Archives.

The article, written by the late C. B. Marshall, said the Nationalists of Singapore, no location in the East occupies such a controlling position. That appeared at a time when the war with Japan still was on and apparently it applied to the strategic importance of Formosa in that war.

Major Oleo Test Expected Tuesday

Washington, Jan. 13 —(AP) — There may be a major test of strength between the two sides in the margarine-vs-butter scrap.

Spokesmen for both sides said they believed an agreement could be reached for a vote then on substitute advanced by dairy processors to replace the "house" bill to repeal federal oleomargarine taxes.

The substitute also would exempt the taxes but would ban the spread from interstate commerce if it colored yellow.

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) leader of the oleomargarine forces said he would seek an unanimous agreement to vote at 3 p.m. (EST) Tuesday on the substitute and a plea to cut excise taxes.

Efforts to get an agreement such a vote today collapsed when Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.) said he would have to consult one or two of his GOP colleagues before voting.

I Love My Doctor

By Evelyn Barkins

Since there was no obvious escape, I decided to relax and enjoy myself. "I could use a little rest in bed, anyway," I thought, reaching for a lacy, rousseau bed jacket, the kind that are good for burying, only, and nothing more active.

When John came back with his little black bag, I said, "My, my, aren't doctors' bags getting smaller? You'd never convince a child that his little brother or sister came in that! What's happening to the professional badge of honor?"

John laughed. "Decreasing in size all he time so that the real big specialists don't carry any. Generally, the size decreases directly in proportion to the way a man's medical standing increases. And now let me take your pulse." He finished, reaching for my hand.

I felt very silly sitting there, with my hand extended like that as if it belonged to neither of us. As a patient, I never been a tremendous success. There is an art to lying in bed gracefully.

"Quite rapid," John said seriously, as he finished with my pulse. "You must have a high fever. Open your mouth," he continued with arm, producing his thermometer.

Obediently, I opened, and he stuck it in. Then I spoke again, bobbing the thermometer up and down like a politician with a fat cigar. "Please don't stay worrying John. It's just a gripe, that's all."

A gripe would have suited me fine. "A gripe is nothing but a bad cold with fever," John had explained, "and like the cold, there is no cure, and little else known about it."

John removed the thermometer. "One hundred three" he read, sounding more and more disturbed like an inner Sanctum mystery. "Here we go again," I grumbled, as he started to examine my chest. Suddenly, I noticed that his stethoscope had stopped making its round over my body but had settled down in one area only. An ominous silence filled the room, and as I lifted my head to question John, I noticed with astonishment, before he could turn away, that there were tears running down his face.

"John," my voice sounded strange, "you mean it isn't a gripe? You found a spot of pneumonia, didn't you?"

He tried to deny it, but could hardly speak.

There is a whole school of husbands in existence who pride themselves on the fact that they always try to keep bad news from "their dear little women." I personally could never see the value of inevitably finding out on Thursday what happened on Tuesday. I remember, in particular, the time my Uncle Peter was so pleased with his maneuvering in a full 24-hour-a-day job, with everyone else who got excitedly and secretly around an about the victim of his charity because it took my Aunt Jean three whole days before she discovered the passing of a dear but distant relative who was due on Friday for dinner. "Peter is so considerate," said the approving family, "he'd probably try to keep even his own death from poor Jean."

"All right," he said after a moment's hesitation, "there is a patch of pneumonia."

"Bad!" I tried to sound like Bob discussing an interesting case. "Not very," he said, trying to be all at once, I was terribly afraid. It was as if everything I prized most was being threatened: John and me together, our work, our love, our companionship.

Then he grew brisk. "What are you crying about?" he asked furiously wiping his eyes. "We'll start you on sulfa immediately and in a week you'll be fine. You ought to be grateful we've got sulfa."

"But in some cases it doesn't work," I wept. "You read that to me last week from the A. M. A. Journal. Oh, John, I'm scared."

"Now who's a medical worrier?" he asked. "I thought you considered me crazy for thinking about exceptional coronaries at 27?"

"All right," I said, "I'm the worrier." I stopped to blow my nose. "But I caught it from you, so you've only yourself to blame."

"Blame accepted," he answered, trying to laugh. "Now just you lie still and I'll start doing things. In a way, it was a relief just to lie back on the pillows and let everything go hang."

On John returned. "Look, sweetie," he said hesitatingly, "should I call in Bob or someone else to look after you?"

Movie Director John Stahl Succumbs

Hollywood, Jan. 13 — (AP)—M. Stahl, one of Hollywood's producers and directors, died tonight of a heart attack.

The veteran director, who in 1914 had been in Hollywood, died at a Presbyterian hospital. Stahl was 54 years old.

He had acted on the stage 10 years when he accepted a job as director with an independent motion picture company in New York City. That was 1914 and he had been with the movies ever since.

In the early days of the movies he was noted for his treatment of topical subjects. Nearly all of his early movies were based on the lines of the day.

Some of his greatest training came in the early days of the talkies when he directed "Immortal Life," "Seed," "Broad Street," and "Only Yesterday," which introduced Margaret Sullivan to the screen.

He produced and directed "Obsession" and "Fanny." In later years his "Leaves for Heaven" won an academy nomination for Gene Tierney.

"Keys to the Kingdom" brought the spotlight on Gregory Peck. He was associated for many years with Louis B. Mayer, first First National and later at founding of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

He also was with Universal, with his own company, Tiffany Stahl.

At his death, he was under contract to 20th Century-Fox. He ended his career with "Oh, Beautiful Doll" and "Father of a Foolback."

He was born in New York City. His wife, Roxana, was at his bedside.

Fair Enough

New York, Jan. 12 — The books
 of the court circle of Franklin D.
 Roosevelt and other idolaters are put forth as "source material" for the permanent historical record.
 Therefore, it is imperative that deliberate lies, innocent errors and distortions be challenged while the subject is still fresh and the authorities are still alive and ere records be destroyed as many of them will be.

A case in point — and I cannot offer any other — is the release statement was deliberate or innocent — occurs in the book called "White House Physician" by Ross T. McIntire, a navy medical officer, where he tells us that Roosevelt was an athlete when he was an undergraduate at Harvard.
 On the contrary, Roosevelt was a mama's boy and never was allowed to associate with the children of the Common Man at Hyde park nor to spend an hour of his childhood in a public school and he did not take part in the rough-and-tumble of body-contact sports.

Doctor McIntire, who was Roosevelt's official physician, was adorned with the rank, title, pay and honors of a naval officer. He was a member of the "White House Club," which provoked bitter smirks among faithful line officers of the navy. He wrote as follows:
 "Had he been a weakling, born puny and used to illness, patience and fortitude might have been expected when he was crippled by polio. 'Instead of that, health was a birthright. ... At Harvard he rowed on the crew and played football.'"

Roosevelt did not row on "the crew" at Harvard and there is no record in the archives of the Harvard Athletic association of his participation in football, whether "varsity," class or house. Doctor McIntire does not give the source of his erroneous information on this matter.

I wrote to the Harvard Athletic association for official information
 as to Doctor McIntire's statements.
 The reply says: "There is nothing in our records to show that the general ever played on a varsity football team or rowed on a varsity crew. A member of our staff could not find his name listed as a member of any football squad" in the widener library archives.

"In his freshman year and in the fall of his sophomore year he rowed on class crews as follows:—
 There are then listed four minor crew events. Roosevelt rowed stroke on the second crew of New-England House which finished fourth in a race on April 25, 1901.
 He stroked the Newell junior crew
 which won the 'Weld-Newell Graded Race' on May 27. He again stroked the Newell junior crew in the Metropolitan A. R. A. regatta on June 17. The records do not show whether this boat finished. In November of the same year, as a sophomore, Roosevelt stroked the Newell second crew
 which finished fourth in a regatta with West Point. 10-11.

"In the 1904 class album which there appears nothing except his photograph," this report states.
 Although Doctor McIntire does not specifically tell us that his late patient and patron made the
 "varsity" crew and football team,
 that implication certainly is conveyed by his reference to "the crew." At Harvard or any other school which goes in for crew, "the crew" is the varsity, as Doctor McIntire should have known. He informed himself. And while he does not tell us that Roosevelt made the "varsity" football team, his casual, assured statement that Roosevelt "played football" at Harvard when Harvard was one of the mightiest Big Three and the Big Three regularly dominated the All-America selections, could be deceptive.

The tug of Doctor McIntire's personal feelings toward Roosevelt may be surmised from his statement that in 1938 "the President was generous enough to make me surgeon-general of the navy with the rank of rear admiral." Generosity seems to have been an insufficient motive for the selection of the surgeon-general and his promotion to flag rank. He says he recalls "with much of the old bitterness the howl that went up in the press when President Wilson promoted Carl G. Grosscup to rear admiral as a proper and deserved recognition for his faithful service to three chief executives, therefore Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson." Roosevelt in his "generosity" was to give McIntire to a higher grade although, by that time he had inflated and cheapened rank by the appointment of many apple-shiners
 and personal friends.

I submit this verified information
 from the Harvard Athletic association for the same reasons that Doctor McIntire, Mrs. Roosevelt and other biographers and autobiographers offer as justification for their writings. That is to stand as a record of the truth for history.
 Aside from the importance of the actual truth one may remember that membership in the "varsity" crew and football team confers a prestige which Dr. McIntire may have desired for his friend but with the facts do not justify the claim.

This is a further commentary on the reliability of doctor McIntire's memories as source material for historians. In a previous discussion
 I pointed out that although he is advertised as a reliable authority on the people about Roosevelt
 he did not mention the extended sentimental relationship between Roosevelt and Mrs. Winthrop Ruth erford which continued long after there had been a showdown between Roosevelt and his wife. He mentions the historical fact that Mrs. Rutherford was in the room at the final scene of his life while his wife, as usual, was fussily busy at petty affairs hundreds of miles away.

With these reservations and, perhaps, Doctor McIntire's story is less authentic as history than his torians otherwise might regard it.

Another Porker

Blytheville, Jan. 12 —(AP)—J. A.
 Lloyd, Blytheville high school's star tackle, said today he "more than likely" will enroll at the University of Arkansas next fall.

A three-year letterman, Lloyd is six feet tall and weighs 204 pounds.

Baugh Looms as Favorite for Baylor Job

Waco, Tex., Jan. 13 —(AP)—Baylor's athletic committee meets next week to consider a new football coach. Indications are Sam Baugh is the top choice.

Dr. W. R. White, university president, last night announced the committee meeting.

Baugh, ex-Texas Christian university star and passing ace of the Washington professional Redskins, looms as the No. 1 choice for the job he can reach an agreement with Washington to release him.

Dr. White listed applicants for the job as Baylor coach as Homer Cole, former professional and Arkansas A. and M. coach, John Tomlin, coach of Port Arthur, Tex.
 high school; Bob Walsh, former coach of St. Benedict's college, and Lowell (Red) Dawson, former Tulane university and professional coach.

Bobcats Meet
Camden on Local Court

The Hope Bobcats meet the strong Camden Panthers here tonight at 8 o'clock in the High school gymnasium. Little is known about the Camden five but they usually defeat a public school.

Hope has dropped only one contest this season — that earlier in the week to the Texarkana Razorbacks. They hold victories over El Dorado, Prescott and Nashville.
 At 7 p.m. the night's card will pitting the Junior teams from the two schools.

Tall Arsenal
Team Downs
Hope 89-66

The Hope boys played one of their best games but the height was the difference. Red River boasts one of the tallest independents in this section having a man 6 feet 7, another 6 feet 8 and two 6 feet 2. Only one of the Arsenal boys came under the six-foot mark.

Bullock led the Hope Cagers
 with 19 points followed by Evers
 with 18 and Gilson Ross with 15.
 Every Hope man played good ball all the way.

Tuesday night the Legionaires meet the Okay Cementers here in a game that will certainly be a top game. Each team has won a game against each other.

Prescott
Cagers Down
Carlisle

The Prescott Legionaires, one of the best independent basketball teams in this section, added another victory to their long list by taking the Strong Carlisle independents at Prescott last night by a score of 68-61.

The Carlisle boys who brought along Ken Crosswell and Fullerton
 from the Morgan Insurance team were determined to win this game since Prescott had won in their first meeting this year. But the Prescott Legionaires fought all the harder and came through with a second victory.

Porkers Upset
by Aggies
43 to 35

College Station, Tex., Jan. 13 — (AP)—Southwest conference basketball title hopes of the Arkansas Razorbacks have suffered their first jolt.

The Porkers were upset, 43-35, by the Texas Aggies here last night and must go to Houston tomorrow night for a meeting with the tough Rice Okls.

Bob Ambler, Arkansas' 6-7, center, poured 30 points through the hoops for high scoring honors, but his teammates couldn't find the range on their long shots and were outplayed by the taller Aggies on rebounds.

Jewell McDowell tallied 17 points for the Aggies. M. and held Gerald Hudspeth, Arkansas' sharp shooting forward, to a pair of field goals.

The Aggies led 22-20 at halftime. The score was tied four times.

One defeat doesn't spoil a team's chances in the cut-throat Southwest, whose champion rarely goes undefeated, but it increases the pressure from here out on the champions.

Rice will be on the rebound tomorrow night, too. Texas came from behind to dump the Owls, 55-52, last night. Tom Hamilton chalked up 20 points to lead Texas.
 which was beaten by Arkansas
 last week.

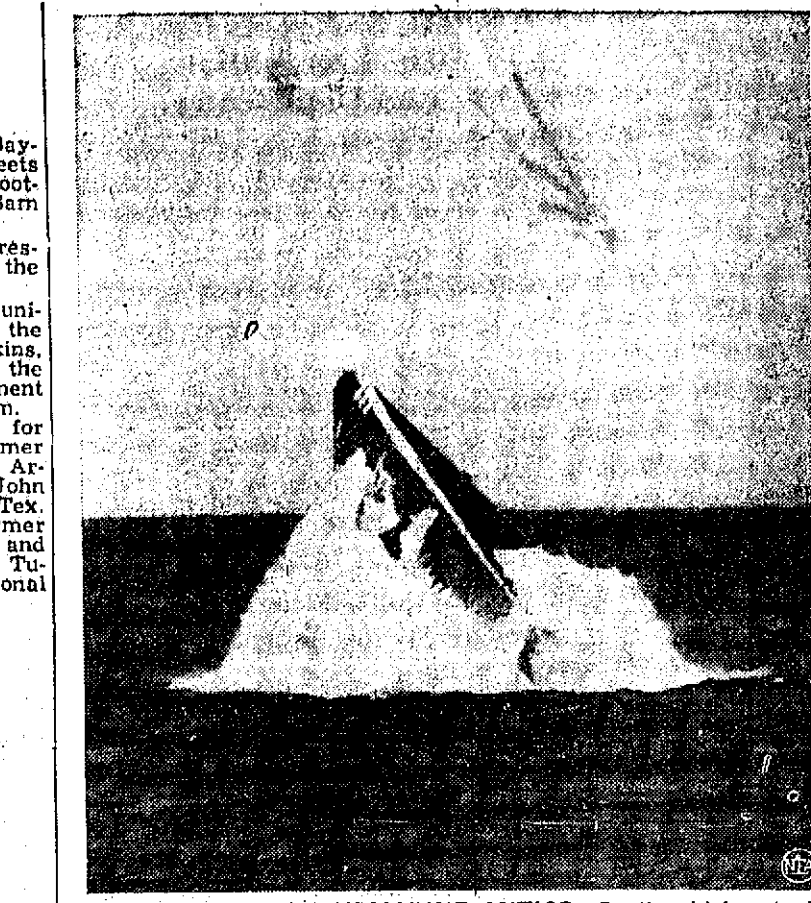

Westinghouse
Head at L. R.
Plant Opening

Little Rock, Jan. 13 —(AP)—The president of Westinghouse Electric corporation thinks American wage and salary earners should become stockholders in American business.

"One of the chief troubles with the American capitalism is that there just aren't enough Americans who really believe in it," said Gwilym A. Price of Pittsburgh.

Price spoke at a Little Rock
 Chamber of Commerce banquet last night. Earlier yesterday he participated in the formal opening of Westinghouse's lamp bulb plant here.

Canada is half again as large as the United States.

HIGH-POWERED SUBMARINE ANTICS—Darting high out of the water like a porpoise, the USS Amberjack, one of the Navy's newest super-powered submarines, shows her versatility during trial runs off Key West, Fla. The sub's skipper, Commander E. L. Beach, said such steep climbs—in contrast to the slow, level surfacing of conventional-type subs—are not normal maneuvers for the Guppy-type Amberjack. Rather, they demonstrate the new sub's great maneuverability.

FLIGHT TROPHY FOR ICECAP RESCUE—Lt. Col. Emil G. Beaudry of Manchester, N. H., left, receives the Mackay Trophy, background, for the most meritorious flight of 1948, from Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff. Colonel Beaudry received the award for his rescue of 12 fellow airmen who were marooned on a Greenland icecap on Dec. 28, 1948.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—The University of Virginia, which withdrew from the Southern conference a few years ago in protest
 over the ill-fated Graham plan, likely will rejoin that group after the current fuss over the NCAA sanctions for not taking more part in the athletic programs, will be very active in that line for a while.

For instance, it was the Louisiana State prexy, never known as a strong supporter of intercollegiate athletics, who insisted on "publicity" for that 250
 buck payment for Sugar Bowl expenses. Now the athletic dept. is hearing some repercussions and can only say: "Well, look at what the other schools did for their kids."

Thumb Fun, Eh?
 Probably the biggest pair of hands on display around the football coaches meeting are carried by Joe S. Tyndal and that prompts Boston college's Denny Myers to tell a yarn about Joe's college grid days. "Seems in one game a 150-pound wingback was assigned the job of keeping Stydahar out of the backfield and decided a little illegal holding was the only sure way. ... So when he saw Joe busting through, he wrapped both hands around a "wrist" and snugged it close to his body so the ref couldn't see."

As the play ended, the back-glanced at the bench to make sure his coach had noted his success. ...
 Just then Joe tapped him with his free hand and said: "They play's over, son. Would you mind lettin' go my thumb."

One-Minute Sports Page
 Only about a half dozen coaches applied for the vacant Holy Cross football coaching job. Penn State students, they open their first boxing season in 27 years without a fight. Hook on deck, have designated tomorrow as "Leo Hook night" in honor of the ailing veteran. ... Only 15 National Hockey league players are eligible for the (Calder) Trophy, outstanding rookie award, this season. Eleven of them are on the Boston and New York clubs. ... The Palm Beach (formerly Goodall) Round Robin golf tournament, has picked out a nice spot for itself this year. It will be played a week after the open and a week before the PGA.

Dots All, Brothers
 Coach Bob Grieve's Syracuse U.
 basketball team is expected to track athletes are doubling as ear-patters, doing their own patch
 work on the outdoor board track game. When the job is completed they'll all probably become hammer throwers for one toss. ... Right after Bob Woodruff signed that profitable contract with Florida, Scoop Latimer checked it with this observation: "Woodruff has a seven-year hitch, but at $17,000 per, he won't have to scratch for a living."

 nation's top golfers entered.

 were filled in qualifying rounds
